

ABSTRACT

A process is disclosed which combines Internet technology and organizational business practices, to enable a service provider to become the central procurement department for multiple companies by purchasing goods and services from an aggregation of multiple companies. This is accomplished by offering the services of purchasing goods and services to a subset of the purchasing public who are tenants of member office buildings.

0421142.04
002140-000001:6/9/03